35 Canadians Picketing U.S. Embassy

Seamen in London Protesting "Interference" in Trade Unions

LONDON, June 8 (CP).—Thirty-five Canadian seamen from five ships strikebound in British ports today picketed the United States Embassy in London's Grosvenor Square. One poster they carried read: "American Government, keep your hands off Canadian trade unions."

Bud Doucette, 26-year-old former quartermaster of the Beaverbank, one of the strikebound ships, called

Alexander Inspects Hongkong

HONGKONG, June 7 (CP).—The defenses of this Crown colony off the southeast coast of embattled China today went under the scrutiny of Britain's Defence Minister, while in China itself the picture appeared to be darkening for the Nationalists.

As A. V. Alexander, who flew from London last week to make an on-the-spot check of Hongkong's defense facilities, toured the island colony, informed American sources here declared that the fate of Canton, the Nationalist refugee capital, appears sealed.

Canton is only about 100 miles to the north of Hongkong, on the Chinese mainland. The position of the Nationalist Government, already torn by political dissension, has deteriorated further with an upsurge of Communist guerrilla activity along a 170-mile front only 130 miles northeast of Canton.

Meanwhile, the Communist-controlled Shanghai newspaper Post Mercury said today that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, retired Nationalist President, has pledged that he will recapture Shanghai from the Communists within four months or commit suicide.

the picketing a protest against what he termed intervention by the American Federation of Labor in Canadian trade union politics.

He said the AFL has threatened to boycott all British ships because of support by dockers in a number of British ports of the strike of the Canadian Seamen's Union.

The CSU, affiliated with the T.L.C., but now under suspension by the congress, has been on strike since March 31. The strike was called after ship operators in Canadian East Coast ports signed contracts with the Seafarers' International Union (A.F.L.).

The S.I.U. has called the rival union Communist-dominated. "We have been suspended by the Trades and Labor Congress because of A.F.L. and American Government pressure on the Congress," said Doucette.

WILL KEEP ON

(The suspension was ordered last Friday by the T.L.C. executive in Ottawa).

Doucette added that the seamen will keep up their picketing "incessantly" until "we have some reply from the American Embassy."

Sailors on a number of ships in Liverpool, Bristol and Avonmouth Harbors, where stevedores are on strike in sympathy with the Canadian seamen, also walked out. They protested the use of British services in unloading perishable cargoes and operating harbor lock gates.

Control Stubborn Forest Fire 11 Miles Northwest of Duncan

Fifty men and two bulldozers last night had a forest fire under control 11 miles northwest of Duncan.

The blaze roared over 100 acres of logged-off ground of the Hillcrest Lumber Company along Solly Creek, a tributary of the Cowichan River.

The men and bulldozers raced yesterday to complete a fire guard around the area and by last night had managed to keep the fire penned up within the 100 acres.

High winds Monday fanned the blaze 60 feet high in places making fire fighting still hazardous and the flames were still out of control yesterday morning.

Later yesterday, Lloyd Bassett, chief forester of the Vancouver forest district, said the wind had turned back on itself and was aiding the fire fighters.

NEW TREES LOST
 Forest Service officials said the area was being cleared out for replanting and it was feared the fire had destroyed many of the trees planted in the area last year.

Fears that a forest fire had broken out in the Prospect Lake area were quieted last night when the Saanich fire department said the reported smoke columns came from large-scale land-clearing.

U.S. Firm Leases City Grain Elevator

Big Four Deadlock On Berlin

PARIS, June 7 (CP).—Soviet Russia was disclosed today to have made proposals which, in the view of the Western Powers, would give the Russians a political and economic stranglehold on Berlin.

The Western Powers rejected the proposals, made at the Council of Foreign Ministers here.

At the same time the United States, backed by the other two Western Powers, was disclosed to have favored giving Berliners sweeping powers of self-government, similar to those to be held by Germans in the Western zones.

Among the suggestions advanced by Foreign Minister Vishinsky was that the four occupying powers, pending election of a Berlin city government, name a temporary German commission to run the city and supervise elections. He proposed that the Soviet commander appoint 50 per cent of the commission, and that the three Western Powers appoint the other 50 per cent.

Acheson said this was not "fair and equitable" on the basis of population or any other standard. West Berlin had two-thirds of the population.

Acheson wanted each power to nominate 25 per cent of the temporary city commission.

The main deadlock, however, developed over the veto.

British sources said Vishinsky's proposals, submitted last Friday, would establish three categories of questions:

1. Those on which the four-power Kommandatura (governing body) would decide by unanimous vote.

2. Those to be settled by the city government after preliminary approval by the Kommandatura.

3. Those reserved to city authorities, but subject to later veto by any member of the Kommandatura.

Thus, though three different procedures were provided, the result could always be the same—a veto of any German action.

 MESACHIE LAKE, June 7.—One man was killed when a light truck careened over a bridge and fell 20 feet into the Robertson River, one and one half miles from here, at 2:30 p.m. yesterday.

Dead is Leon Fong Hee, 40, Chinese grade foreman for the Hillcrest Lumber Company. He and Andy Clevin, master mechanic for the company, were riding in a truck driven by Lemus Traer, woods superintendent, on the way home from the woods to the village.

Men following close behind in other trucks splashed in to release Traer and Clevin after the truck jumped a one-foot guard-rail and landed in four feet of water, caving in the top of the cab. They suffered only cuts and bruises.

Oregon Company to Pay $1,000 Per Month for One-Year Term

Victoria's grain elevator, which has stood idle for years at Ogden Point, is to be leased to a United States grain concern on a $1,000 per month rental basis.

City Council yesterday approved a lands committee recommendation that the elevator be leased to Kerr Gifford & Company, Incorporated, of Portland, Oregon, for a one-year period from August 1.

Ald. Duncan D. McTavish, chairman of the lands committee, said the agreement allowed the grain concern an option for renewal of the lease for a further period.

TO PAY MAINTENANCE
 In addition to paying the city $1,000 a month for use of the elevator, Ald. McTavish told council the company would pay maintenance cost now borne by the city.

He explained the Portland company intended to store United States grain for export in the elevator. He said the grain would be stored under customs bond.

Ald. McTavish stated the completed negotiations on terms of the agreement with company officials last week-end in Portland.

Acting Mayor Edward Williams said the lands committee had "done a grand job" in completing arrangements for leasing the Ogden Point elevator.

It was learned from city officials that the elevator had been idle for more than four years, since the Gillespie Grain Company dropped its lease. It was estimated the city paid out $1,500 to $1,700 a year in maintenance costs while the building was idle.

The elevator was built some 20 years ago by Panama Grain Terminals, Limited. It was designed to hold a minimum of 1,000,000 bushels of wheat and a maximum of 1,500,000 bushels.

"rocking table" reared from the village failed to revive him. It is not known whether he died from concussion or drowning.

Dr. A. G. Vey attended. Provincial Police are investigating the accident. An inquest will be held at Lake Cowichan on Monday, under Col. J. H. Boyd, coroner.

Police Start 40-Hour Week

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., June 7 (CP).—A 40-hour week became a reality today for the New Westminster police force.

With the swearing-in of three new constables, the Royal City Police Department officially swung into its new working hours routine.

Joe North Given Permit For Park Program Work

Christopher Roland (Joe) North was granted permission by council yesterday to distribute programs at Sunday band concerts in Beacon Hill Park.

But his application was not granted until council members had discussed pro and con, Mr. North's fitness for the privileges he has enjoyed in the park for the past 40 years.

WINS ON VOTE
 A parks committee recommendation, calling for refusal of the North application, was defeated when council decided by a six to four vote that Mr. North should be given permission to distribute programs in the park as no cost to the city.

The parks committee recommendation stated the city should itself distribute band programs in the park.

Alderman Aubrey Kent, who opposed granting of the North application, stated he had received reports that Mr. North had not conducted himself properly in the park. He said it was "all right for those who know him, but tourists wouldn't understand."

He agreed the parks committee recommendation appeared to be definitely pointed at Mr. North, but had four or five other applications have been turned down.

CHARITABLE WORK
 Alderman Harold Diggon, who favored the granting of the North application, declared that while Mr. North "doesn't behave in an exemplary manner at some times," he had done a great deal of charitable work.

"This is a part of Mr. North's living," he advised. "He does give value for the money he merchants spend in advertising in his programs."

PEARSON RAIPS LEADERS

MONTREAL, June 7 (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said tonight in a transcribed broadcast over the C.B.C. that among those active Federal election campaign in Quebec "are persons who bitterly opposed our participation in the war against Nazi aggression."

These persons, Mr. Pearson added, also "have attacked vigorously our membership in the Commonwealth of Nations and have rejected the whole concept of peace through collective security."

He urged his audience to vote Liberal, so that "in the bitter years ahead" the Liberal Government might be allowed to work out the implications of a policy of peace through collective security "as it is embodied in the Atlantic Pact."

There is a challenge to the Government from the left and from the right, he said. "On the fringes of the right are the hard-faced reactionaries, and on the fringes of the left are the wild-eyed revolutionaries."

WARNS AGAINST SOCIALISM

Speaking at Nanaimo and Cedar yesterday, Maj.-Gen. O. R. Pearkes, Nanaimo Progressive Conservative candidate in the Federal elections, warned his audience against voting for the C.C.F.

It was, he said, a Communist-backed party as demonstrated by the fact that the party in British Columbia failed to support the Atlantic Pact.

Mrs. Margaret Harvey said the Progressive Conservatives advocated pensions without the means test.

DERIDES SOCIAL SERVICES

Social services are the golden chains to bind the people to the state, W. J. Clark, Union of Electors candidate for Victoria, said at a meeting last night in Loughheed's Banquet Club.

"When you have enough of these services," he said, "the Government cannot fail to have direction of labor. When you have direction of labor, where is your freedom?"

DEFENDS LIBERALISM

WINNIPEG, June 7 (CP)—True and genuine Liberalism is the creed which has guided Canada to greatness and is the only creed which can preserve our national unity, External Affairs Minister Pearson said here tonight.

Mr. Pearson spoke in support of Peter Tarraka, Liberal candidate for Winnipeg North in the forthcoming Federal election.

It was becoming increasingly clear, he said, that Canadians would repudiate what he termed the "vague propaganda and unfounded attacks" being leveled against the Government by its opponents.

CONSERVATION PROBLEM

VANCOUVER, June 7 (CP)—Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb said tonight that the conservation of British Columbia's timber resources is one of the most important problems facing the province.

In a recorded radio address from Vancouver, Mr. Anscomb said that for many years it was apparent that British Columbia was "heading for future trouble unless drastic measures were taken with this great natural resource."

To offset this, he said, the Coalition Government instituted the forest management plan which means that "as you cut, so you must plant."

DENIES ACCUSATION

OCEAN FALLS, B.C., June 7 (CP)—Attorney-General Gordon Wismer denied last night the Aluminum Company of Canada was contributing toward the Coalition campaign fund.

The accusation was made by Angus Macdonald, C.C.F. candidate for the Federal constituency of Vancouver East.

Mr. Wismer said the Aluminum Company was "getting nothing but water which is now being wasted, and they will be required to pay for it."

ASSAILS LIBERALS

CARMAN, Man., June 7 (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said today the present Government has nothing to offer the people except "unpopularity, distrust and malice in the years ahead."

Addressing a political rally in this town in Leger constituency, Mr. Drew said nothing could show the "complete bankruptcy of the present Government more clearly than the personal attacks on me."

He said he had seen for the first time today a booklet put out by the National Liberal Federation.

"It supports a Government that is not Liberal. It is a Government that denies all the principles of Liberalism."

SEEK INDIAN VOTE

British Columbia native Indians will be the first in Canadian history to vote in Provincial elections when they go to the polls June 15.

No other Province in Canada has yet granted them a franchise. They are still not allowed to vote in Federal elections as long as they remain wards of the Government.

Union Candidates

WILLIAM J. CLARK

MRS. DITH M. BELL

MRS. DORIS A. LOUGHEED

Three Union of Electors candidates entered in the Provincial elections for Victoria are shown above.

William J. Clark was born at Oxbow, Saskatchewan, and educated at Oxbow and Victoria High School. After teaching school for a short time, he entered the hotel business in Chicago and later became manager of the Dominion Hotel here, a job he has held for 15 years.

HELD MANY OFFICES

Mr. Clark's past president of the Gyro Club, past president of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, past president and now secretary-treasurer of the Vancouver Island Hotel Association, a director of the Chamber of Commerce, member of the Camosun Lodge No. 60, A.P. & A.M., and a Shriner.

Mrs. Bell was born in Newcastle-on-Tyne, England; educated in British public schools and came to Canada in 1926. She has four sons and two daughters. Three sons served overseas during the World War. She worked with the Red Cross as a block warden during the war; is a member of the Florence Nightingale Chapter of the I.O.D.E. and convener of its British Empire studies, recording secretary of the Local Council of Women, second vice-president of the Victoria Women's Progressive Conservative Association, vice-president of the Union of Electors since 1944.

BORN IN CALGARY

Mrs. Loughheed was born in Calgary, educated at Prince of Wales School and University College, Vancouver, and spent two years in England studying economics and political science. She has one daughter and is associated with her husband, M. F. Loughheed, in the operation of Loughheed's Banquet Club.

Mrs. Loughheed has been a resident of British Columbia for 20 years and of Victoria seven and a half years.

Estimated population of Indians in British Columbia is 28,000 and approximately 8,000 have registered as voters.

They are being strenuously wooed by both the Coalition and the C.C.F., especially in some of the ridings in the North, where they hold a large proportion of the potential vote.

Winch Says C.C.F. Crusade "Not Just Political Party"

C.C.F. Leader Harold Winch invaded Victoria last night, tore into the Coalition Government and big business, claimed both were trying to distort the policies of the C.C.F., and declared that the C.C.F. was not just a political party but "a crusade for a better way of life for everyone."

He spoke at the Prince Robert House before a capacity audience in support of the party's Greater Victoria candidates, who lined a platform decorated with party posters. Pretty girls with white bandoliers labeled "C.C.F." in green letters, acted as ushers and later collected $59 to aid the campaign.

"CIRCUS ATMOSPHERE" Mr. Winch roared the "circus" atmosphere of a meeting held by Attorney-General Gordon Wismer at the Bay Theatre in Vancouver last night, where, he said, the Coalition were promising an orchestra, dancing girls, surprises, and two monkeys.

It was, he said, an insult to the intelligence of the people of British Columbia that the Coalition felt they had to put on a sideshow to get people to a Coalition meeting.

Mr. Winch said the Liberals and Conservatives were joined together in matrimony to beat the C.C.F., but they would be divorced two weeks later and flying at one another's throats.

Honest government, he said, couldn't be expected from parties who could not campaign honestly.

REFUTES PAMPHLET

He gave a Coalition campaign pamphlet and said it was full of falsehoods. The pamphlet said the C.C.F. had agreed that the sales tax could not be removed; that was a falsehood. The pamphlet said the tax had been necessary to pay old-age pensions, mothers' allowances, care of the blind, and to provide for treatment of V.D. and T.B., but these, emphasized Mr. Winch, were all paid for out of Government revenue before the sales tax came "in last night."

Worst of all, the C.C.F. leader continued, the Government "is trying to soft-soap you into believing that you had to have the sales tax in order to get the hospital plan."

ACCEPTS CHALLENGE

Referring to a reported statement of Finance Minister Anscomb that it was "foolishness" to talk of increasing mining royalties, Mr. Winch declared: "We'll accept that challenge," and launched an attack on the profits of big business.

More than 63 per cent of this year's governmental expenditures of $92,500,000 would come directly from the people, he said.

In the face of this, the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company made a clear profit of $54,000,000 last year against Government revenues of $1,135,000 from all mining companies.

TIMBER ROYALTIES

The Government had received only $6,000,000 in timber royalties, but one big company had made $5,500,000 last year.

Two increases in the price of gasoline had been granted in British Columbia in the past few months, but Imperial Oil Company of Canada had just reported profits of $22,500,000 on an investment of $80,000,000.

Every move made by the C.C.F. to increase the levies on these companies "for the use of the people's natural resources," said Mr. Winch, had been turned down by the Coalition. Yet the same Government had added or taken over from the Dominion another $20,000,000 in taxation on the people.

At one point Mr. Winch said he was hot, peeled off his coat and vest and said he was "really going to work. He wouldn't roll up his sleeves until after June 15.

He said Premier Byron Johnson was his very good personal friend, but he thought Mr. Johnson would do better back in business and he was trying his best to send him back.

The Prime Minister, who has been campaigning in the Federal election for the last month, told his audience of more than 500 in the Chateau Frontenac ballroom that hoarseness, which made some of his few words inaudible, was due to over-use of his voice.

Mr. St. Laurent introduced Senator P. H. Bouffard and listened attentively while Mr. Bouffard read in English the prepared address which said elected local governments provide the basis of democratic national government.

The Prime Minister's office announced early today that Mr. St. Laurent's campaign speeches scheduled for the next "two or three days" have been canceled on doctor's orders.

St. Laurent Loses Voice At Banquet

QUEBEC, June 7 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent, in a failing voice, apologized tonight for being unable to deliver his own speech at the annual banquet of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

Assert C.C.F. Brand of Government Would Drive Away New B.C. Capital

The C.C.F. took a tongue-lashing from three of four speakers at a Coalition election meeting in Central Junior High School auditorium last night.

The new Union of Electors group had the honor of drawing fire from the biggest Coalition gun of the night, Education Minister W. T. Straith.

Spicing a recital of Coalition achievements with denunciations of the C.C.F., were Capt. D. W. Poundfoot, one of the three Coalition candidates for Victoria; Reeve R. A. Wootton of Oak Bay, and W. A. MacKenzie, former Provincial Minister of Mines.

A C.C.F. government would frighten $500,000,000 in new money away from British Columbia, Capt. Poundfoot said. He declared that it was the C.C.F.'s plan intention to "socialize" British Columbia as quickly as possible.

Aluminum companies are awaiting the result of the June 15 election before they launch their development plans, he said.

The C.C.F. could never source $500,000,000 in development capital from British Columbia's small population, he declared.

"Socialism is just the beginning of what will ultimately develop into a Nazi or Socialist state," said R. A. Wootton.

He said that 70,000 people had left C.C.F.-governed Saskatchewan while 220,000 came to British Columbia in the same period.

The Province takes some $5,000,000 in taxes from Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company, not merely $1,000,000 as claimed by C.C.F. candidate Martin Neilson, W. A. MacKenzie said.

"NON-PARTY" CLAIM

Education Minister Straith attacked the Union of Electors' "non-party" claim.

NEED NEW CAPITAL

Introduction of foreign capital is the only way in which British Columbia can prosper, Andrew Whisker, Coalition candidate for Cowichan-Newcastle, told a meeting in the Lafe Cowichan Community Hall on Friday.

He said there are vast projects under way in this province and large sums of money being spent in establishing new industry. Mr. Whisker stressed that "in no way had the Provincial Government failed to keep its pledges."

Barbara Dyers, left, receives certificate for successfully completing junior home nursing and first aid, in presence of J. Q. Gillan, president, Victoria Branch of Red Cross Society, adds congratulations. Presentations were made to approximately 50 C.G.I.T. girls at meeting held in Red Cross headquarters on Fort Street last night. Delegates from various points on Vancouver Island, who are attending five-day course at Crystal Garden in water safety and advanced swimming, also attended meeting.

Clerk of Port Alberni Municipal Officers' Head

F. L. Killo, municipal clerk of Port Alberni, was elected president of the Municipal Officers' Association of British Columbia at the association's annual convention in the Empress Hotel yesterday.

A. G. Brine, New Westminster, was elected vice-president and S. L. Brice, clerk of the township of Chilliwack, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Other members of the executive are H. M. Levey, Kamloops, past president; M. F. Hunter, Victoria; R. A. Harrison, West Vancouver; J. W. Wright, Vernon; Ronald Thompson, Vancouver and C. B. Brown, Burnaby.

The two-day party, which ends today, drew a "largest-ever" attendance of 78 members from 25 cities, 19 district municipalities and nine villages throughout the province. They came from such widely-separated points as Vancouver, Dawson Creek, Fernie and Prince George.

ECONOMY FLEA
A plea for economy came from Hon. Frank Putnam, Minister of Agriculture, who addressed delegates in the absence of Hon. R. C. MacDonald, Minister of Municipal Affairs.

"Municipalities are asking for more all the time," he complained. "For heaven's sake try to hold the lid down as we are coming near the end of our tether."

Acting Mayor Edward Williams welcomed delegates on behalf of the city. He was introduced by M. Frank Munter, Victoria's city clerk.

Property-owning churches have the right to vote even though they do not pay taxes, Forrest L. Shaw, Power Commission member, said in the course of an address on municipal law and election procedures.

City to Have No Mayor For Period

Victoria will be without a chief magistrate until next Saturday.

Acting Mayor Edward Williams, Aldermen Charles Banfield and Mrs. Margaret D. Christie left the city this morning to attend the Rose Festival in Portland, Oregon. It is not expected that the group will return to Victoria before next Saturday.

Mayor George left the city a week ago to attend the annual conference in Quebec City this week of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities. He is not expected to return until June 15.

Council yesterday took no action to appoint an acting acting-mayor. Alderman Duncan McTavish becomes the senior member of council with Acting Mayor Williams' departure.

held under Provincial Government auspices. It winds up tonight with a dinner tendered by the Province in the Empress Hotel.

Farthest-travelled delegate is Miss M. L. McPhee, Dawson Creek clerk. Other women delegates include Miss Vera Mesher, clerk of Esquimalt, and Miss A. Dunnigan, Merritt.

To Make Appointments Shortly To New City Traffic Division

All applications for positions on the new city police traffic division are now in the hands of Chief John A. McLellan.

The chief said yesterday the applications will be screened and appointments made very soon. The proposed department will deal solely with traffic matters and will be headed by Sgt. Brooke Douglass, a recent traffic graduate of the Northwestern University Traffic Institute.

All members of the new department will take specialized training under Sgt. Douglass, according to Chief McLellan. It is likely the classes will be held about two evenings a week at the police station.

Work is expected to start soon on construction of offices for the traffic department. It is planned to convert the present patrol house for this purpose, and erect garage accommodation on the east end of the station.

Tenants will move today into the last four of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation's 198-house project in the Foul Bay Road and Hillside area, officials of the corporation said yesterday.

A number of Victoria Kiwanis Club members will leave for Vancouver today to attend an inter-city meeting with the Vancouver Kiwanis Club. Local delegates will return tomorrow.

PROTEST GUARDS

Resolutions protesting employment of members of the Canadian Corps of Commissioners as security guards at Esquimalt Dockyard were passed by Dockyard branch of the Civil Service Association at a meeting in Prince Robert House. The resolutions urged that commissioners already employed be replaced by qualified veterans on the civil service eligible list, by promotion or entry, and that all future appointments be made from this list.

Resolutions will be forwarded to the Civil Service Association national executive, in Ottawa.

COLOR PHOTOGRAPHY

Something unusual in photography is on display all this week for the public at the Knight Studio, 715 Fort Street.

Mr. Knight, who for years has been struggling to reproduce colored pictures in their natural state, finds this the only solution to the problem.

SAVES FOUR GIRLS

Four Oak Bay High School students probably owe their lives to the action of 16-year-old Evelyn Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. W. Cox, 1828 St. Ann Street.

Miss Cox was working on her boat at Oak Bay when she saw a raft being used by the girls fall apart, throwing them into the cold water.

She immediately rowed out and rescued the soaked students. Names of the girls are not known.

City Council Turns Out in Force To Watch Tests on Arena Roof

With the polished air of a ring-master at a three-ring circus, Acting Mayor Edward Williams officiated yesterday when tests were made in the Memorial Arena of the two most popular methods advanced for fastening fibreglass ceiling sheets.

Nearly all the members of City Council looked on as the tests were made in one of the arena dressing-rooms. The cement on which the sheets were fixed by the slower method was of practically the same thickness as the cement in the arena roof. The gun did not cause any apparent cracks in the cement.

Following completion of the tests some Aldermen stated the belief that the sheet fixed by the slower method was not as strong as the one fixed by the faster method.

Donald L. Shiell, of Amco Power Tool Co., Ltd., Vancouver, stood under a fibreglass sheet propped against a low portion of the dressing-room ceiling with a riveting gun in his hands.

Guy W. Pickard, of Luney Bros. & Hamilton, stood a few feet away beside another fibreglass sheet against a wall. He held a power drill in his hands.

Acting Mayor Williams explained each of the men would begin at the same moment to drive six bolts through the sheets and into the cement behind to give an idea of the relative speed of the two different operations.

When the acting mayor gave the "go" signal there was a sharp report as the gun fired the first bolt home. The "contestant" with the drill was still preparing his first hole while his "opponent" had picked up another charge—similar to the charge used in a 22-calibre rifle—placed it in his tube-like gun along with another bolt capped by a washer, set the gun against the sheet and fired again.

Despite repeated interruptions by questioning Aldermen, the operator of the gun had fired all his bolts in less than half an hour and before the man with the drill had drilled and screwed in half his.

While the tests were being made, Acting Mayor Williams, who, as chairman of the arena committee, favors use of the gun, stood above the portion of the ceiling where the gun was being fired with C. T. Hamilton, arena consulting engineer, who has opposed use of the gun on the arena ceiling.

"Just like a tap, that's all," declared Acting Mayor Williams, after the tests were over.

Normal School Extension Practical and Needed

THE Provincial Government is to be congratulated on the decision to enlarge the Normal School buildings and grounds jointly in the interest of the provincial teacher-training courses and Victoria College. When Victoria College outgrew its shell during the war, it was the Province which provided a solution. Since that day the Provincial Normal School and the College have shared the same building, which is provincially owned. The $75,000 addition now contemplated would not have become necessary but for this dual occupancy, and in that sense the Provincial Government is making a handsome gesture to the City of Victoria.

Eventually, one supposes, the two institutions will have to be separated, each with accommodation of its own. For the present, however, there will be a material saving to the taxpayers in continuing the joint arrangement. For a relatively modest addition—some ground and four new classrooms—the present structure can be made to serve both College and Normal School without a major upset or move. So far the joint plan has worked out well, while the staffs of both institutions have contributed materially to the success of that.

Increased enrollment in Normal Schools is just what the Province has been trying to induce, and it is encouraging to learn that this is coming about. Victoria College, for its part, has been growing steadily for four decades, an indispensable part of the Greater Victoria community and one which will prove of increasing importance as the years go by. On both counts adequate housing of these two institutions is a first-rate investment.

Traffic Must Give Way When Sirens Sound

DANGERS encountered by police patrols, firemen and ambulance attendants traveling at high speeds to answer emergency calls are being heightened through lack of co-operation on the part of drivers of private automobiles. Repeated warnings, backed by prosecutions in one or two cases of culpable disregard of the by-laws, do not appear to have had much appreciable effect.

Failure to clear the way for official vehicles has been causing much concern to Spanish police officers in particular, but it is prevalent in other parts of the district as well, and on provincial highways. Even in the busy main streets of the city the warning note of the siren often fails to produce any noticeable response from motorists, and fast-traveling police cars and fire trucks are forced to weave a hazardous way through traffic that should not be there.

Pre-empting the Prophet of Biblical Egypt

IT might be stretching presumption a trifle to pre-empt Joseph the saviour of Biblical Egypt for any one political party, but of course all is fair during elections. Mr. Solon Low may just have beaten his opponents to the draw, as it were, in propounding the philosophy that the favorite son of Jacob would be a Social Creditor were he alive today. Because of his flair for gathering corn, Mr. Low thinks Joseph would have made an excellent finance minister, no doubt under his. Mr. Low's, prime minister.

Without disrespect to the memory of a venerable figure of old, one might conclude that catering to the economic needs of Canadians in the nineteen-forties would be rather different from the simple expedients that flourished in the days of the Pharaohs. Joseph, of course, was a dreamer, also a prophet, and since Mr. Low is also something of a prophet although laboring in an indifferent wilderness, the attraction he holds for the national Social Credit leader may at least be understood.

It may be true that one can starve today although wallowing in money, as Mr. Low says, though he would have to be shipwrecked on a desert island with a chest of gold to demonstrate this thesis. Nevertheless Joseph did not scorn money and was not above gathering it as well as corn. Another conspicuous legend about Joseph is that he wore a coat of many colors. Whether he would put it on were he indeed the Canadian Minister of Finance must be left to the realm of speculation, but there can be no denying that in a Federal election it would be a handy garment to have close by.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes—and ships—and sailing
wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IT is remarkable when you stop to think about it. All over the world, I daresay, there are people poring these days over travel folders and pamphlets couched in the most inviting terms. They are looking for places to go.

If this were not so, of course, there would be no tourist industry.

Yet it's a strange obsession, the idea that foreign fields are greener and more unique than anything that can be close at hand or native to your own country. Even when experience teaches that anticipation is not always realized, enthusiasm remains undampened.

Right at this moment there will be Yankees planning a trip to Canada, Canadians applying for United States immigration cards, Australians and New Zealanders getting ready to exchange visits, Italians perhaps going to France, Frenchmen to England, Brazilians to Peru, Peruvians to Mexico, Britons to Belgium and vice versa. The list is endless.

So is the lure of faraway places.

Except, maybe, in iron curtain countries where it is considered bad form to seek leave to go abroad. One thing repression of this kind may lead to, of course, is a better knowledge of their own countries by those thus kept prisoner through state decree.

But then compulsion would ruin the savor of even the most enticing spa.

NOTHING SO GOOD?

Nevertheless, this habit of seeking a holiday outside provincial or national boundaries, built up through the years by the aforesaid seductive travel folders, is founded on a wrong premise, to wit: that there's nothing half so good to be seen near home.

And that, you know, is—er—umpte. Just the other morning I was chatting to a friend about vacations. He speculated idly, for I'm sure he had no more intention of going there than of taking a rocket trip to the moon, about the delights of Kentucky, Virginia, and those other Southern States whose mint juleps, colonels and leisurely draws create a romantic mental picture. For my part I uttered equally futile remarks about running down to California, or Salt Lake City, or maybe Oklahoma, seeing that a musical of that name is said to be entrancing.

And yet, you know, either of us would probably be better off if we visited the Cariboo.

Of course the Cariboo is in British Columbia, and—well, if you're a B.C. person you can always take a B.C. trip, anytime. The trouble is that one doesn't.

CLOSE BUT NEVER SEEN

In the town of my nativity there is a cathedral that's 700 years old and I never stepped under its portals. I passed it a hundred times and promised myself repeatedly that some day I'd go inside. Now I'm 5,000 miles away and likely enough I never will.

A few years ago I lived in the Fairfield district and had a longing to stand on the top of the high rock that overlooks the northeast corner of May and Moss Streets. It was only a few blocks away and I could satisfy my desire almost any time, I thought. Now I'm a couple of miles away and maybe I never will.

But let me get to Salt Lake City and I'd be rushing to peep inside the Mormon Temple. If I were in California I'd be climbing some of those rocky crags the villains of the Westerns hide among.

That's how it is, you see. I suppose there are Victorians who have been to Buffalo and yet have never seen the streets of Courtenay, Vancouver Island. There will be British Columbians who have been all over the Pacific Northwest but not all over the Canadian Northwest. There will be Torontonians who could walk blindfolded in New York yet be helpless without a guide in Montreal.

QUEER DIVERSION

They say a prophet seldom finds honor in his own country. It seems that a country seldom finds recognition among its own people.

Not being a publicity writer I haven't the wit to paint the glories of the Canadian scene—the national parks, the mountains and rivers, the superb countryside, the lakes, the beaches, the woods and all the other wonders we turn our backs upon.

But they're there, and of a nature, I doubt not at all, that puts foreign fields to shame.

Have you stood on the edge of the Fraser Canyon, driven along the Campbell River for a hundred captivating miles, been to the Laurentians, stooped under Niagara, sampled the Rockies by campfire, swum in the St. Lawrence, fished in Nova Scotia, walked through golden prairie wheat, climbed to the Quebec citadel, tramped along leafy Ontario lanes, or taken a trip to the Yukon?

I haven't done all or many of these things either, but it would do me good if I had. Yet I suppose I'm liable to be poring over a travel folder, too, one of these weeks. And I won't be a bit surprised if it's one that is not issued in Canada.

Need I say more about this queer diversion of holiday interest?

Profiteering Headaches Under E.C.A.

By JOHN F. LEACACOS

North American Newspaper Alliance

ROME—Unknown to the general public, E.C.A. has been fighting the good fight over here—and winning—against Communist smear propaganda that the chief purpose of the Marshall Plan in Europe is to save America's economic hide by dumping unsaleable surpluses.

The irony of it, E.C.A. officials are the first to admit, is that the Communists as usual have a germ of truth in their slanders. This they then twist and exploit out of recognition into a fat lie. In this connection, three points should be noted:

American businessmen have been trying to pressure E.C.A. and Marshall Plan recipients into buying what they don't need;

Speculators in Marshall Plan countries are continually asking for fancy products available in the United States on which they could make a big killing;

E.C.A. has been saying no to both American and foreign businessmen who prefer personal profit to the success of the Marshall Plan's mission—which is to put Western Europe on sound economic legs.

The private American salesmen have been at it even though they know that the E.C.A. list of surpluses authorized to be exported freely through Marshall Plan financing contains less than a dozen items, such as eggs, flax, wool, linseed oil, tobacco, turpentine and peanut oil.

Here in Italy at different times American salesmen have tried to persuade the Italian Government to ask for E.C.A. funds to buy wire recorders, typewriters, tractors, fountain pens, washing machines, refrigerators, machine tools, fluorescent lamps, electric motors and extra cotton, among other things.

The Italian E.C.A. mission has turned all these down.

To keep a systematic eye on such possible leakages, the E.C.A. in Italy has set up a rigid procedure whereby every request from Italian private industry for Marshall Plan financing to buy American products is examined in detail once a week at a clearing session in the Italian Ministry of Foreign Trade. If the item can be made in Italy, the request is out. If the item can help further Italian production, the request is approved.

The two hardest undercover battles as to how to spend United States tax dollars have had to do with tractors and cotton.

Tractors are in surplus in the United States and the manufacturers naturally would like to sell. Further, American tractors can be made better and sold cheaper even with the added cost of overseas freight. Italian tractors in fact are so high-priced that many are rusting in warehouses unbought even though Italian farmers need them. But sales of American tractors in Italy would ruin the Italian tractor industry and cause even greater unemployment in the already hard-hit mechanical industries. So E.C.A. forbids import of all tractors of less than 80 horsepower (the Italians don't make the bigger ones).

The cotton business is even trickier, considering the gigantic American surplus. Playing with certain American exporters, some Italian interests want unlimited amounts of United States cotton. The idea, it is said, is to produce enough textiles in Italy to flood the world market and reap tremendous profits on volume. The E.C.A. turned this down as uneconomic in the long run.

As if these headaches were not enough, the E.C.A. here is also bothered with a lot of screwball requests. Happily, these are easier to refuse.

First on the list should be the Italian who came in and demanded 10 per cent royalties on all E.C.A. funds handled in Italy. He said it was his due as author of the Marshall Plan.

Another man wanted E.C.A. money to finance a world peace plan. A few desired to establish newspapers. Others thought it would be fine to build monuments to Italo-American friendship with E.C.A. dollars. Dozens wrote in asking E.C.A. to distribute American razor blades and shaving soap. A professor asked for a complete set of Longfellow's poetical works.

The inventor of a midjet submarine asked for funds to raise his sunken invention from the Bay of Naples. Hundreds request medicines. One fisherman came up with the suggestion to make all fishing nets in Italy luminous so they could attract and catch more fish.

The Army Buys Onions

(From The Financial Post)

ONE would naturally suppose that shopping for the army would be a bit more complicated than for an average family. But not until the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives at Washington got busy was the tremendous scope of these complications revealed. This is the place, surely, where bureaucracy and red tape flourish to perfection.

The United States Army decided to buy some dried onions.

The Quartermaster Corps in Washington sent a "purchasing directive" to its office in Chicago. And what happened then has been shown on a chart prepared by the investigators of the committee.

It shows that the order for onions went through 288 separate steps before the deal was completed. It passed through 18 subdivisions of the purchasing office, 10 copies of it were distributed, each of them carried by messenger and acknowledged by signed receipt. It was given a code number. It was tabulated. It was filed. It was entered on something called "Master Purchase Directive Commodity Index." Its details went on a card index. It was entered on a "Purchase Directive Progress Record," which was probably very necessary by this time, for it was the 33rd step in the treatment.

Before the 28th and final step was reached, the order had been handled by messengers 110 times. It took six weeks before a contract was prepared.

and its approval was the 137th step, so it's a fair guess that it took another six weeks to pay the supplier.

And the committee's investigators don't even bother to show when the Army got the onions.

When shown the chart, the United States Quartermaster—General remarked rather conservatively: "A chart of that kind would reflect what appears to be lost motion." Most of the clerks and bookkeepers and stampers and filers and approvers and forwarders and copiers who were asked what they were doing professed to have no idea why it had to be done. They simply said: "Someone said it had to be done this way."

The buying of onions in 288 steps looks at first sight like a vaudeville gag. But it is in fact the recognized method of procedure, and the salaries and wages of all the petty officials involved in this unbelievable web of red tape are paid by the American taxpayers.

It would be nice to think that that sort of thing doesn't occur when the Canadian Army sets out to buy onions. But the million-odd Canadians who have had inside or outside experience with that branch of the service in two World Wars will be sceptical. They will remember that it was a pretty complicated business to get a spare button or a pin or even an extra cartridge, and that was in wartime, when routine was supposed to be streamlined.

SPRINKLING WATER

Sir,—Regarding the water supply, the residents of Synod Road, Cedar Hill, Saanich, are wondering what is going to happen to their gardens this year. They are restricted to every other day for watering; but all day the pressure is so poor that a sprinkler will not even turn, and in the evening, from 8 to 9 o'clock, they cannot get a drop even for domestic purposes.

If my understanding is correct, the supply in this district is only through a two-inch main; and with some people using two hoses at one time, others cannot get any.

As houses are being erected in this neighborhood, the demand for water will increase, and this serious situation should be remedied before any improvements are done on the roads.

E. A. ROBBINS.

LOW RENTAL HOUSING

Sir,—In 1947 you were gracious enough to publish a request of mine for housing for low-income people. Nothing has been done up to the present. However, I see through the medium of the press that some steps are being made by the Senior Citizens' Council to start something along these lines.

That citizens, through no fault of their own, must be subject to ruthless insult and subtle slavery in a rich and bounteous country is difficult to understand; and it is the duty of everyone to assist capital to work, if our present system is to survive. The evidences are all about us, so now is the time to face the issue, with intelligent understanding and honesty. There is no time like the present.

A. CAROLYN BAYFIELD.

YOUTH EDUCATION

Sir,—I heartily agree that our education should be adjusted to known truth and that children in our schools should be taught the truth. However, we might differ as to what is truth.

Our educational system has undergone great changes during the past few years. The Bible was discarded from the schools, its teachings are scoffed at by many teachers, and man-made theories are substituted for its truths. Today we are reaping the harvest of this teaching, and let us examine it. Has it produced a generation of law-abiding citizens, with higher moral standards, with wiser judgment, with a happy, contented outlook on life? We all know that the very opposite is the case. Crime is increasing at an alarming rate, insanity is on the increase, drunkenness has even invaded the ranks of early youth of both sexes, strikes abound on every hand revealing the discontent and unrest of men's hearts. It's going to take something more than a fantastical theory about man descending from an ape to meet the need of this old world today; it's going to take a vital faith in a living God, and nobody realizes this so keenly as far-seeing statesmen all over the world.

VERA FORREST.

SMOKE

Sir,—It gave me great pleasure to read the recent item in your paper regarding "Sootless Smoke." We, the housewives on Hillside Avenue, would shout with joy if something could and would be done about the smoke of the shingle mill, also the brewery. At times it is so bad we cannot keep a window open. Our curtains are constantly in the wash or at a cleaners. It is a lovely street to live on, but had I ever known of the smoke I surely would never have bought a home here. Granted the traveling public think it nice here Saturday and Sunday, but how about the rest of the week? Another thing which would add to our very lovely city is more street cleaners. I saw a dead cat stay on the street this week for three days. Plenty of men are out of work, give them a job. We want people to visit us. Clean up, stop the very unnecessary smoke and give the traveling public something to look at.

MRS. M. A. HARTON.

Set Toll of Plane Crash Off Puerto Rico at 54

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, June 7 (CP).—A twin-engine transport plane bound for the United States with 75 Puerto Rican passengers and a crew of six died in a crash off the coast of Puerto Rico today, and 54 persons apparently perished.

An official list of survivors tonight gave only 27 names, although the United States Coast Guard had announced earlier that 28 persons had been rescued.

Early reports also had listed the total complement of the plane at 75, 69 passengers and the six-member crew.

The transport was a C-46 of Strato Freight, Inc., a two-plane charter service with headquarters at Bradley Field, Conn. Engine trouble struck it soon after the take-off on a flight to Miami, Fla., and Newark, N.J.

MANY CHILDREN

One of the six crew members, Capt. Al Cockrell of Pittsfield, Mass., was among those missing and presumed dead. The others were passengers—men, women and children.

There were 19 children aboard, including three less than a year old. The plane's stewardess, Miss Judith Hale of Binghamton, N.Y., told rescue workers Cockrell had given her life jacket in the sea. She was among the known survivors.

Capt. D. H. Dexter, in charge of the United States Coast Guard base here, did not believe any more would be found alive. "Twenty-five of the survivors saved themselves by swimming to shore."

DROPPED FLARES

Vessels and planes took part in the rescue work. The driving rain hampered them. B-17's dropped flares to pierce the mist.

The plane, crippled and trying to return to the San Juan airport, made a crash landing in the Atlantic 400 yards west of Point Salinas, about four miles from the airport. It sank within six minutes in 40 feet of water.

A Navy tug marked the spot and salvage work was ordered started immediately. A series of investigations was launched.

NEW YORK, June 7 (CP).—If the estimated death toll of 54 persons in today's transport plane crash off Puerto Rico is correct, then the disaster is the worst in commercial flying history.

Fifty-four persons died in a military plane crash in Britain during the war, but 33 of these were school children who were killed when a United States Air Force plane plunged into a school.

Two other commercial plane crashes have brought death to 53 persons each since the war. These were:

1. This crash of an Eastern Airlines plane in Maryland, May 20, 1947.
2. The crash, against a mountain, of an airliner in Bogota, Colombia. Many of the dead in this crash were from the crowd on the ground.

30 Homeless

ST. MICHEL DE NAPIERVILLE, June 7 (CP).—More than 30 persons were left homeless when a $100,000 fire gutted the heart of this village today.

AMESBURY, Mass. (UP).—Once a community that called itself the "Carriage Capital of the World," Amesbury still retains a link with the transportation industry because of a patent fabric-lined steel window channel for automobiles. Three plants work round the clock to produce the channels.

Housing Plans, City Financing, Mayors' Topics

QUEBEC, June 7 (CP).—Housing and municipal finance were the topics of discussion today at the opening of the 12th annual conference of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

In the morning session Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto said rehabilitation of existing city areas is a more effective way of reducing the housing shortage than the subsidized building of outlying undeveloped property.

In the afternoon session, Mayor E. A. Bourque of Ottawa, in an address in French to the conference, said municipalities should benefit from gasoline and automobile taxes levied by provincial governments.

He said the most pressing problem in municipal affairs now is where to find new sources of revenue to meet increasing expenditures.

The two addresses were delivered for panel discussion at the weekly long conference which brings together about 400 delegates from cities and towns across Canada.

Mayor McCallum said Toronto's low-rental Regent Park housing project, which cost $5,000,000, meant saving in services and was a step in keeping industry out of the central district of the city.

Fire protection, social services, transportation and health and building services are more easily supplied to central areas, he said.

These redevelopment plans go far towards eliminating slum districts, he added.

Mayor Bourque felt "our citizens are becoming more exacting—they expect more services and better services, and in the case of certain small municipalities, the demand for improvements and services has risen beyond all expectations with a resultant increase in property tax to an all-time peak."

Some financial help would have to come from Provincial Governments in the form of benefits from automobile and gasoline taxes.

Mayor Bourque said that since the housing shortage now is a national problem, the Federal Government should finance much of the housing developments.

Drought Costs Ontario $5,000,000 Each Day

TORONTO, June 7 (CP).—A costly drought, shriveling crops at a $5,000,000-a-day pace, ended its 13th day in Central Ontario today with no immediate prospect of rain.

It reached out from the parched farmlands of Southern Ontario to the hazard of forest fires in timberlands to the north. Hon. Harold Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, said the danger of new fires remains high because of the lack of rainfall.

In the South, the main drought area extends from Woodstock and St. Thomas in Southwestern Ontario to Port Hope, some 60 miles east of Toronto. It extends north-west to Lake Huron and the Bruce Peninsula.

Rainfall figures announced today by the Toronto weather office underline the severity of the dry spell, which is at its worst in the Toronto and Simcoe areas.

TORONTO RAINLESS

Toronto has had no rainfall in June and in May precipitation amounted to only 41 of an inch, the second lowest figure for the month in 100 years. Generally, rainfall over the south-central section of Ontario in May amounted to three-quarters of an inch, compared with 2 1/2 inches in May, 1948. The south-western section had 1 1/2 inches compared with 3 1/4 inches a year ago. In the northern and southwestern parts of the province the fall was about the same as last year.

The early hay crop is estimated at about 25 per cent normal, with Central Halton County being particularly affected. The hay crop last year was worth $78,523,000.

Anxiety is felt over the fall wheat crop which last year was worth almost $54,000,000. In many sections the wheat is stunted and turning yellow.

Teacher Rescues Boys From Surf

VANCOUVER, June 7 (CP).—A heroic Vancouver school teacher narrowly averted a mass tragedy here Monday when he saved four of his pupils from drowning.

W. A. Norton, 28, plunged into the surf at a city beach to drag out four waterlogged youngsters who, moments before, were happily playing with their schoolmates. The boys were part of the beach-nursing school midday base ball team.

Teacher Norton and helpers on the beach worked frantically to revive the boys after he brought them ashore. They apparently became panic-stricken when the heavy surf pulled them out of their depth.

Unemployment In U.S. Hits Postwar Peak

WASHINGTON, June 7 (CP).—Unemployment rose to a postwar high of 3,285,000 in May, a time when it usually decreases, the Census Bureau reported today.

Job opportunities in non-farm industries declined in the face of an increased number of job seekers.

The April-to-May increase in unemployment was 273,000—almost identical with the 279,000 drop in non-farming jobs in that same period.

Two-thirds of the additional unemployed, it said, were high school and college-age youths seeking summer or post-graduation jobs.

MORE FARM JOBS

Those who wanted farm work apparently had no trouble getting it as the number of farm jobs rose 1-154,000 from April to May.

Because the increase in farm jobs was much bigger than the decline in non-farm jobs, the overall employment total for May was 58,694,000, an increase of 875,000 compared to April.

Thus the number of jobholders and the number of jobless persons both increased in May. This is explained by the fact that there was an increase in the "labor force"—which includes persons looking for work.

GENERAL PICTURE

Taking developments over the course of the 12 months ended in May, the picture shaped up this way:

The number of persons wanting jobs increased by 1,561,000, but the number of jobs increased only 34,000. The result was a 1,527,000 increase in the ranks of the unemployed.

The nation's farms were responsible for holding employment at the relatively high level still prevailing. Farm jobs had increased 1,114,000 over the year while non-farm jobs declined 1,080,000.

Nationalization Of Railways Put Forward

REGINA, June 7 (CP).—A study of the possibilities of railway nationalization was suggested to the Royal Commission on Transportation.

At its opening hearing in this province, the commission also received a Saskatchewan Government proposal for Federal subsidies to aid certain uneconomic rail operations.

Both proposals were incorporated in an "outline" brief filed with the commission some weeks ago and formally placed on the record at today's hearing.

The commission, in the early stages of a nation-wide tour of investigation into all forms of Federally-controlled transport, also heard Saskatchewan's Co-operative Minister L. F. McIntosh call for greater co-ordination of the carrier services of the country.

Oddities

PORTLAND, Ore., June 7 (AP).—Albert W. Johnson, a tourist from Knox, Ind., found out about Columbia River salmon today.

He was about to take a picture of the salmon jumping the Bonneville Dam fish ladder—a series of pools rising to steps to allow fish to get over the dam.

Just then a big one got off course and jumped high toward the railing where Johnson had braced his camera. Such fish weigh up to 75 pounds.

"He was three feet long, and came sailing through the air and drove his nose smack into the shutter," Johnson said.

He left his battered camera at a repair shop.

What's more, he missed the picture.

OIL CITY, Pa., June 7 (AP).—First offenders today profited five cents by paying their overtime parking tickets.

Mayor William A. Mork Monday became a father as he responded with a 15-cent cigar as each motorist paid the standard ten-cent fine.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7 (AP).—James Caesar Petrillo couldn't trust his own horn before his union.

He had promised to play a trumpet solo before the 1,000 delegates to the American Federation of Musicians' convention. The solo was called off because of "mechanical failure."

No other explanation was given.

Employer-Employee Relationships Discussed at C.M.A. Convention

ST. ANDREWS-BY-THE-SEA, N.B., June 7 (CP).—There is no limit to the common identity of employers and employees if we can get rid of selfishness, L. W. Simms of Saint John, N.B., tonight told the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Delegates to the conference applauded as Mr. Simms spoke on industrial relations. His remarks seemed representative of the speeches and discussions.

"One thing that comes to me more and more is that the most important thing I can do is to have a greater sense of stewardship to wards my own people," said Mr. Simms, an industrialist and former C.M.A. president.

FUTURE PROBLEMS

"In this, no one can take the place of the head of a firm, in identifying himself with the interests of those who work with him."

Today's discussions brought up topics which may be full of future problems for employers, employees and the community in general. For instance, if employment falls off, should there be a shorter work week to spread employment? Or should the full work-week be maintained and possible surplus employees be allowed to go on unemployment insurance?

The meeting did not attempt to give any answer to the questions raised and it seems obvious that they will be the subject of long discussions and differing opinion should they arise in any falling off of present high employment.

Unemployment insurance makes the situation different from the 20's, delegates thought.

CHANGED ATTITUDE

C. A. L. Murchison, formerly of Winnipeg and now Unemployment Insurance Commission member in Ottawa, said there has been a change in attitude, particularly in distribution trades towards such insurance. At one time there was some tendency to regard the insurance as just another taxation.

Retailers now, in periods of seasonal unemployment, have seen insurance cheques come across their counters to buy necessary goods and many regard them as important pointers in maintaining business and retarding a slow-down.

In the fiscal year ending March 31 nearly $50,000,000 was paid out in benefits, about half of it in the

Hope Leaflets May Help Missing Man

TARTUO BAY, B.C., June 7 (CP).—Fisherman Martin Ulmer, if he's alive, will see 20,000 "don't-give-up" messages dropped over this almost impenetrable terrain today in an 11th hour move to effect his rescue.

Ulmer has been missing 16 days in these Queen Charlotte Islands, 450 miles north of Vancouver, since the motor in his 34-foot gillnetter went dead and he and his companion took to the rugged islands.

The companion, 18-year-old Bob Tasker, his voice gone and his throat raw from drinking creek water, crawled into a fishcamp eight days after they went ashore. They had separated, he knew nothing of Ulmer.

As an R.C.A.F. Canoe sprinkled the 20,000 pamphlets over the wild islands today, Tasker told searchers here, his dramatic story. He said he owed his life to his rubber boots and his fingernails.

He said they left their gillnetter May 18 and rowed ashore in a rubber dinghy. Upcast they trekked, portaging the dinghy for two days.

"We reached an inlet and I started rowing across it while Marty walked around it. Fifty feet from shore the dinghy sank with our supplies and I just managed to swim to land. I didn't see Marty again."

Dinosaur Dad—Only Old Dobbin

Nothing but bones was final verdict of Provincial Museum authorities on discovery of remains of some "ancient" monster in potato patch on farm near Sooke. C. H. Monk, left, ex-school teacher and farmer whose plough turned up ancient bones, examines vertebra from what museum spokesman identified as "big horse." W. B. Gwilliam, on whose farm the find was made, kneels to examine bones of various kinds which are crowding his potatoes.

It Might Have Been—! But Actually It Wasn't

It might have been a dinosaur, or a dugong, or a bull.

But actually the ancient bones found on the seaside farm of W. B. Gwilliam some 30-odd miles from Victoria, belonged to a horse—probably a Percheron—in the opinion of museum authorities here.

The find of the ancient bones was first reported by J. R. Monk, ex-school teacher and fruit grower, and owner of acreage on the Sooke-Jordan River road.

Mr. Monk discovered the bones while ploughing on Gwilliam's farm. Last Friday he described the find as consisting of a "ribbed" humerus bone, a scapula, a vertebra and two huge "teeth" with roots seven or eight inches long.

"INTERESTED" Dr. Clifford Carl, when informed of the find said that he was "interested" in the discovery.

Yesterday a reporter and a photographer went out to take a picture of the "mammoth" teeth and to examine the scene of the find. They promised to show Dr. Carl the pictures so that he could judge the origin of the bones.

But when they got out to Gwilliam's farm after cracking the oil pan on the ear while following the tortuous trail to the diggings, they found the bones had disappeared. That is, all but a few more that had been dug up after the first discovery.

About this time another carload of reporters and photographers from another newspaper showed up belatedly on the scene. They brought a guide with them.

POTATOES SUFFER Mr. Gwilliam's potato patch was beginning to have a badly trampled appearance.

Over glasses of goats' milk and plates of homemade bread the assemblage reviewed the situation. "It developed that the original bones, including the giant teeth, had already been taken in to the museum.

So the reporters gave up their dentistry digging in Mr. Gwilliam's potato patch and started back to town.

The atmosphere was only slightly relieved by the discovery that the cracked oil pan was not cracked after all—a strange whirring noise under the hood was manfully ignored in the hope that it would go away. As a matter of fact it did, but the feeling was general that the car was bleeding internally.

MUSEUM EXPLAINS In town, the mystery of the missing bones was finally explained when Dr. Carl said, "oh, those bones," and explained about the Percheron. The "teeth," he said were probably splints from the horse's leg bones.

"As you know," he stated, "A horse has only one toe. The splints represent the 'missing' toes." Still, it might have been a dugong or a dinosaur.

nature.

William D. Kennedy, 1116 Collinson Street, was sentenced to seven days in jail when found guilty on a charge of being in control of a car while intoxicated on May 19. The magistrate also suspended Kennedy's driver's licence for one year. Patrick J. Sinnott, counsel for Kennedy, said the conviction will be appealed. Kennedy was released on $500 bail yesterday.

USED SIREN

George W. Bryant, 2260 Eva Avenue, was fined $10 when he pleaded guilty to a charge of using a siren on his car on Douglas Street May 31. He was charged by Constable Aldon Appleton.

SETS BAIL

Magistrate Hall set bail at $1,000 for the release of Frank Forde, 38, 50 Government Street, charged with assaulting John White, Princess Patricia crew member, occasioning him grievous bodily harm, Sunday night.

Forde was charged after allegedly stabbing the English seaman with a carving knife during a drinking tute.

SAANICH COURT

Norman E. Sallis, H.M.C.S. On-Gario, was charged with dangerous driving at a special sitting of Saanich Police court. Charge arose out of an accident Monday at the intersection of Richmond Road and Townley Street.

Sallis was remanded to this morning without plea when Mr. Harrison said the charge may be changed to one of lesser degree.

Three other tenders were submitted: Campbell Bennett Ltd., $85,778; Marwell Construction Company Ltd., $89,772; and General Construction Company Ltd., $91,741. Baynes Manning also submitted the lowest bid of $52,718 for a Public Works garage at Quiesnel. Other bids: E. Miller Construction Company Ltd., Penikese; Dawson & Hall Ltd., $90,578; and Bennett &

COASTGUARD

The "disgrace" of Jahboats having to rescue the Government light-house tender Alberni has again raised the demand among maritime interests here for a coastguard service.

With two fishing vessels aiding, the Alberni was refloated from a reef off Clarke Point on upmost Calvert Island and towed to Safety Cove. The 7 crewmen of the Alberni, uninjured, remained with the vessel.

It's not just the fishermen object to aiding another craft, but the job is one for a proper coastguard.

Homer Stevens, secretary of the port authorities in Ottawa, to urge United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, said yesterday. The union is willing to trans-

ASK ACTION

Aldermen John Baxter and Aubrey Kent joined forces yesterday in asking the finance committee to "hurry up" its report on action to be taken in regard to appointment of a city assessor.

Acting Mayor Edward Williams, chairman of the finance committee, advised the committee did not wish to disturb the acting assessor-collector, at present deep in the throes of preparing 1949 tax bills. He said the matter would be considered when Mayor George returned to the city.

URGENT CONSIDERATION

Oak Bay was asked by City Council yesterday to give "serious consideration" to its proposed drainage scheme before completing final plans.

A public works committee report stated the Oak Bay drainage scheme, recently approved by Oak Bay ratepayers, calls for improvement of an artificial waterway from an area north of Lansdowne Road toward Argyle Avenue and then through Saanich municipality to the city's storm drain at Lansdowne Road and Shelbourne Street.

It was stated that unless arrange-

FILE REQUEST

An S.P.C.A. request that the City Council give reasons for "repeated refusals" to grant them a tag day was received and filed by council yesterday.

An explanation was supplied by Alderman Skillings that the council, according to its own ruling, could not allow more than ten tag days during one year. He said applications for the ten tag days had been granted.

RECOMMEND PAYMENT

Council yesterday recommended payment of $5,924 be made to Pancher & Pancher for construction of the city's garbage crusher and subsequent repairs.

Alderman D. J. D. Hunter, chairman of the public works committee, in reply to questions asked the crusher was "working 90 per cent efficient."

He asserted the crusher might be enlarged. Dr. Hunter said Pancher & Pancher had originally estimated that the crusher could be built for $5,000. "They're high-making money," he stated. "It cost them more money than they expected. For this work it's doing we're getting it at a very cheap price."

REAPPOINT COMMISSION

F. N. Cabell, William Bridge-wood and D. M. W. Grubb, whose terms as members of the five-man Memorial Arena Commission expired May 31, were reappointed by City Council yesterday, for further two-year terms in office.

Other members of the committee are Richard C. Field and W. S. Moore.

WATER BOARD DEBATE

If Oak Bay becomes a member of the Greater Victoria water district, Victoria must appoint another representative to the Greater Victoria water board. City Solicitor A. J. Patton told council yesterday.

Alderman Waldo Skillings objected to Oak Bay entering the district under "special concessions." "They're not getting special concessions," declared Alderman John Baxter.

Discussion was cut short by Alderman Harold Dugan, who asked that the entire matter be referred to the water committee for report.

ENDORSE RESOLUTION

Council yesterday endorsed a resolution advanced by the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association in which the right to seek and hold public municipal office, other than that of school trustee, was requested.

Council agreed to forward the resolution to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities for consideration by the annual convention in Victoria next September.

Council supported a suggestion of Alderman Baxter that a similar resolution be submitted to the U.B.C.M. convention seeking the right for civic employees to seek and hold the office of school trustee. "If teachers don't take any more interest in civic politics in the future than they have in the past, it won't amount to very much," declared Alderman Baxter.

HAY FEVER AND ASTHMA

Two New Specialized Treatments

After 30 years of specializing in treatments for Bronchial and Nasal complaints, International Laboratories of England have found that two separate preparations are necessary for best results and to give satisfactory relief from the distress and discomforts of both Asthma and Hay Fever. All drug stores now have two new specialized treatments.

HAY FEVER

Sufferers know only too well the distressing symptoms of sneezing, nasal inflammation, throat soreness and irritation of the eyes. Asthma is a highly successful treatment sold in a tube with a special nozzle, which makes it very simple to squeeze a little up each nostril. Asthma stops sneezing and discharge with amazing speed, soothes irritated membranes and helps to relieve other distressing symptoms. A tube of Asthma costs $1.50. For all Hay Fever sufferers it is recommended to gargle, bathe closed eyes in warm water and wear sun glasses when in strong sunlight.

Get out this article to remind you to ask your druggist today—he can give you full information and will supply you with whichever treatment you require.

Flowers Keynote Paris Fashions

By BARBARA STEVENSON

PARIS, June 6 (Reuters).—Flowers are the keynote of the mid-season fashion collections in Paris this Summer.

Flowers are pinned to lapels, tucked into belts and pocket, even attached to wristbands worn with both afternoon dresses and tailored suits.

Flower prints with clear outlines are fabric news. Ribbons either stamped or embroidered with flowers form bodices and complete formal evening gowns.

SLEEVELESS COAT
Another outstanding feature of the collections, first noticed at Jacques Fath's, is the sleeveless coat. Often this is in plain material, more elegant designs are also sleeveless, but boast huge shawl collars, occasionally stiffened. Flared capes jut out at the back and shoulder. Hugging capes appear to be cut in one with the coat.

A popular combination is a snow white sharkskin worn over black linen, the coat with a tiny miniature cape, the dress with tailored three-quarter sleeves.

The panel has been carried forward from the Spring season and it seems as though each house is trying to outdo the other in original and sometimes amusing panel arrangements.

Last Autumn every wholesale house in Britain and the United States blossomed forth with Balenciaga's floating back panel. Since then, the panel has found its way not only round midlady's skirt but also above and below, at front and back, and in every other conceivable manner.

The tailored dress which creates the illusion of a suit is worn in every material, including wool, taffeta, the silk, and cotton.

For the evening, Dior favors plain satin bodices over full, sheer skirts and tiny draped bodices in two tones, also over fullness, always strapless and in subdued pastel shades.

Balmain is the most opposed to this silhouette. His evening dresses are frankly sophisticated, his last word in sophistication being carried out in a mermaid line fashioned with silk jersey.

Elect Officers

At the meeting of the Women of the Moose, Victoria Chapter 25, held recently at the K. of P. Hall with Senior Regent Ann Bird presiding, election of officers took place. Those elected were: Junior graduate regent, Ann Bird; senior regent, Jessie Vashers; junior regent, Annie Hopley; chaplain, Polly Bell; recorder, Elita Shaw; and treasurer, Alice Sparks. Mrs. Vashers will appoint the chairmen, guides and guards at the next meeting which will follow an initiation of candidates and a social convened by Membership Chairman Ada Wood.

A public installation will be held at the lower K. of P. Hall, Cormorant Street, on June 24 at 8 p.m.

The escorts of the chapter will go to Duncan and install the new officers of that chapter on June 18. Any member wishing to attend is requested to phone Mrs. Bird at 22948. Graduate Regent D. Guelpe gave a minute report on the activities of the Moose during the May 24 celebration. Mrs. Burnett announced that the girls' drill team under the leadership of Governor Stan Cawsey would put on a display in Duncan on July 1.

Rick Matron Margaret Jones reported on the progress of the silver tea to be held at the Hard of Hearing Hall, Douglas Street, on June 30 at 2 p.m. All committee chairmen will assist the convenor.

Associate-Dean of Friendship D. Fairhurst gave a report on the season.

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil J. Temple, 845 Richmond Avenue, Victoria, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Cecil Dorothea, to Cpl. T. R. (Ray) Scouler, Rivers, Manitoba, son of Mr. T. M. Scouler, 2739 Graham Street, Victoria, B.C., and the late Mrs. Scouler. The wedding will take place on Saturday, August 6, 1949, at 7:30 p.m., at First United Church.

Announcements to appear under this heading will be accepted at The Colonist Advertising Department. Minimum charge $1.50 for 10 lines and the fee for each additional line.

Naval Research Work Will Get Under Way

Marine News

A tightly-knit veil of secrecy hangs over a small, out-of-the-way building at H.M.C. Dockyard, which houses interesting research units and an equally interesting scientist.

For security reasons, little can be said about the Defence Research Pacific Naval Laboratory. The same applies to Dr. Frederick H. Sanders, who came here last summer as a four-man staff to establish the unit and bring it up to its present status as one of the finest centres of its kind in Canada.

Over the past year a great deal of organizational work has been accomplished by Dr. Sanders, and today his laboratory is fully equipped for naval research work on underwater and oceanographic studies. With him now is a staff of about 12, including three University of British Columbia students here for the summer months.

TO START OPERATIONS.
Actual research operations will get under way "in the very near future."

Set Small Boat Program

A summertime series of racing and other events for small boat owners of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club has been released by C. J. Harrington, head of the publicity committee.

The program applies to those owning such sailing craft as Stars, Lightnings, Comets and "M" class craft.

Races for the smaller craft will be held in Cadboro Bay on the evenings of June 8, 15 and 22, July 20 and 27, August 3 and 24. This section of the program is known as the "Wednesday Evening Series."

The Saturday afternoon series will be marked June 11 and 18, August 13 and 20, and September 17. Races to Discovery Island will be sparked July 17, August 14, and September 11.

A number of the vessels will compete in the Pacific International Yachting Association regatta to be held at Bellingham between July 1 and 4, the Royal Victoria Yacht Club regatta over July 30 and 31, and the Cowichan Bay regatta September 3 to 5.

Sailing instruction will be given to all beginners on Friday evenings throughout the remainder of this month, July and August.

J. C. Lissard, deputy minister of the Department of Transport, has issued a number of notices to British Columbia mariners.

New charts, produced by the Hydrographic Service, are now available for the area between Sand Heads to Cape Mudge in the Strait of Georgia, and channels in the vicinity of York Island, Johnstone Strait area. Copies of these charts may be obtained from local offices of the Hydrographic Service, Room 805 in the Belmont Building.

It is also reported that the westerly flashing green light on the south side of the channel at the entrance to the north arm of the Fraser River has been moved in a northwesterly direction to a dolphin

Week-End Cruise Success

To complete a long week-end cruise which took her as far as Port Alberni, H.M.C.S. Sault Ste. Marie—head-quarters and training ship of Victoria's naval reserve division H.M.C.S. Malahat—returned to her Esquimalt base yesterday morning. The cruise also included a stop at the Bamfield cable station.

From this city the ship carried a number of naval reservists in addition to sea cadets from R.C.S.C. Rainbow. At Bamfield the ship was joined by a group of sea cadets from Port Alberni who had journeyed down the Alberni Canal aboard the motor vessel Uchuk II.

At Bamfield the ship's company met officials of the cable station, including manager H. L. Denton, assistant manager A. Beck, and deputy engineer H. L. Baxendale.

The ship sailed for Port Alberni Sunday afternoon and reached "Port" early that evening, after taking the cadets on a brief jaunt out to sea. Ship's officers that evening held a reception for civic officials and leaders of the Navy League of Canada in Port Alberni.

Cadets took an active participation during the cruise, carrying on with regular seamen's duties, including lookout service from the bridge. This phase of instructional operation was conducted by members of H.M.C.S. Malahat.

RETURNS CARGO

The liner Empress of Canada sailed last night for Montreal, still carrying in her holds 4,000 tons of grain loaded in Canada for her last eastward voyage.

More than 450 tons of bacon was discharged during the four days the liner was in port. But the strike of longshoremen at Liverpool halted removal of the balance of her cargo.

The strike is in sympathy with the strike of members of the Canadian Seamen's Union (T.L.C.) The C.S.U. went on strike after Canadian east-coast ship operators signed contracts with the rival Seafarers' International Union (A.F.L.). The grain will remain aboard until the Empress of Canada returns to Liverpool.

South could not help squirming when North bid six clubs over five diamonds, since South was all set to "murder" the opponents, but North's optimism was understandable.

West led his singleton club. Dummy played the nine, and South ruffed East's ten.

South felt sure that the opening lead was a singleton—that West would not have led a club from greater length—and thus it looked impossible to set up that club suit. South could ruff a diamond, then

At the risk of the additional 300 points, South could have tried for the enormous reward of making the contract. Had he led the heart king he would have seen West's nine—and that would have been a highly revealing card! Overtaking the king with dummy's ace, South could now lead a high club through East. The club suit would thus be set up; South would draw East's last trump and claim the slam, plus the 200-point overtrick.

Norbertmen Blow 9-4 Decision in Opener—Barely Hang On for 12-11 Win in Finale

Heading for the Victoria double-header at 12.15 this morning, Ted Norbert was heard to remark, "I'm going out and get myself a bottle of beer." And no one in the crowd of 2,500 who sat in on the Wild double-header with Yakima would blame the abstaining Victoria manager if he carried out his threat. For five hours he paced the coaching box and the dugout as his charges tried to hand the Bears two games in vain. They were successful in the opener, blowing a 9-4 decision but they failed to do so in the nightcap, finally winning, 12-11, to eliminate the wild night of baseball probably ever seen here.

What didn't happen last night isn't worth mentioning. What did happen would take columns and most of it happened in the late-inning final game.

JUST ANOTHER LEAD

Apparently intent on erasing the memory of the opener in which the Athletics started off with a high gear, with Ted Norbert leading by nearly on the fifth inning, breezed to a 4-0 lead in the first three innings and then drove out three of the longest home runs of the season in the fifth inning to take a 10-2 lead after the Bears had broken through for a pair of tallies in their half. Old McDougald touched off the rally with a tremendous clout across Pembroke Street in left center. Bob Keeler then hit another long one over after Dick Morgan had singled, and V. Buccola bounced one off the fence in right center after Tobias had walked and Charlie Balas had singled.

This blow caused a prolonged argument which ended with Manager Joe Orenge out of the game. Balas' second round to first base and the Bear manager claimed, and rightly so, that he had passed the runner. Fortunately for Tacoma, Umpire John Nenech finally ruled against Orenge. He passed Balas' fourth batter and three runs batted in.

UMPIRE PINCH-HITS

Orenge got the gate in the last inning when he continued his protest. Matters were further complicated by the fact that Umpire Tim McCullough was unable to work the game due to an injured foot and neither Yakima's Ted Savares nor Victoria's Larry Ward could give Nenech much help. At the start of the Yakima sixth, the slugger Savares quit his base, claiming a sore, which eventually resulted in the book when he picked up as a pinch-hitter for Dick Drilling in the seventh.

Previously, Nenech had ejected Shortstop Dick Briskey in the second. Briskey missed a third strike after Nenech had called two strikes on him and apparently had a bit too much to say about the call after he returned to the dugout. His banishment was the cue for a long debate with Orenge, and Dewey Soriano the chief spokesman for the Yakima dissenters.

The decision moved Students into a third-place tie with Brentwood Aces in the standings and left the second-place Loggers trailing the league-leading Douglas Tire by three full games.

Cumberland Wins B.C. Soccer Title

Cumberland Rangers captured the provincial intermediate soccer championship on Sunday by blanking North Vancouver L. & K. Lumber Company, 1-0, on the mainland. By their victory, Rangers regained possession of the O. B. Allen Trophy they last held in 1946.

Bobby Thomson acted the only goal and the defensive work by the Islanders proved the victory in the late stages. Andy Garvin, Don Marshall and Thomson were the outstanding players.

STARS VICTORS

On Late Homer

HOLLYWOOD, June 7 (AP)—Frank Kelleher's eighth-inning homer gave front-running Hollywood Stars a 4-3 Coast League victory over San Diego tonight.

HOMEERS STARTED IT

Earl King set Students down with two hits in the first five frames as his mates gave him a six-run lead. He weakened in the sixth and gave up two walks, each of which was followed by a home run by Bung Derr and Tony Marr, respectively, to give the Chinese four runs. He was derailed in favor of veteran Stan Tenning in the seventh after two singles and two fielders' choices had given Students the tying run and left the winning run on base with only one out. Sloppy fielding by Timbermen allowed Students two markers before Tenning could retire the side. King was charged with the defeat.

Jockey Killed

BOSTON, June 7 (AP)—Jockey Joe Melbert, 25, of New Iberia, La., was killed yesterday when his mount, Caroline Star, stumbled leaving the starting gate in the seventh race at Suffolk Downs and stepping on his chest.

CANCEL CRICKET

The regular Wednesday cricket match between Bators and Cotts will not be played this week.

Canier's Aid Not Needed, Torrid Cards Force Pace Gavilan Sharp

Max Lanier had better sign up the Brooklyn Dodgers going to the St. Louis Cardinals in a hurry, because it looks as if they're going to do all right without him.

The torrid Cardinals, currently on the hottest streak of the 1949 National League season, trimmed the New York Giants last night, 3-0, dumping the Giants out of a first-place tie with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

OLD RELIABLES STAR

Two "old reliables" fashioned the Cardinal victory. Smashing Stan Musial walloped two home runs and Lefty Harry (The Cat) Breckenridge tied a five-hit shutout before a crowd of 50,000 fans at the Polo Grounds. The homers were Major tenth and 11th of the season, and they drove in all three Cardinal runs.

If the Cardinals can keep that up they won't need Lanier, or anyone else outside of their present roster. Pitching right now is the least of Manager Eddie Diers' worries, for he has what many outsiders consider the best staff in the league.

Diers' big worry right now doesn't concern his own team. It's when are

Robinson Wins

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 7 (AP)—Welterweight Champion Sugar Ray Robinson tonight knocked out Freddy Fieles of New York in 24 of the third round in an overweight match scheduled for ten rounds.

Robinson weighed 161, Fieles 167.

As far as it went, the bout was little more than a short, effortless workout for Robinson.

In the third, two sharp left hooks in quick succession put Fieles down. The referee didn't even start the count, so complete was Robinson's job.

A substantial crowd of 2,400 paid a gross of $2,365.

Stars Victors On Late Homer

HOLLYWOOD, June 7 (AP)—Frank Kelleher's eighth-inning homer gave front-running Hollywood Stars a 4-3 Coast League victory over San Diego tonight.

Late Goals Give T.A.C. Slim Edge Over Jokers

ham and Gordie Rutledge squared matters in the final count. Larry Booth's solo effort looked like a game-winner for Jokers but Tillmans refused to give up the fight.

Pep Triumphs

NEW RAVEN, Conn., June 7 (AP)—Willie Pep, world's featherweight

champion, easily outboxed Luis Ranaos of Puerto Rico last night in a ten-round non-title bout. The titleholder, looking fast and shifty, emerged unscathed in his first test since he regained the crown from Sandy Saddler last February.

Pep, weighing 131, scored convincingly with sharp punches to win every round. Ranaos, 128, proved an elusive target, but never threatened the champ.

Centre-Forward Nets Five for Tourists—B.C. Team Has Early Advantage in Play

By TOM TAYLOR

VANCOUVER, June 7 (AP)—Newcastle United's British Columbia All-Stars 1.

That was the score at Calder Park tonight when the visiting Magpies left the field with a half the story. Had English international Jack Milburn changed sides, the tally might have been much different.

Milburn scored no fewer than five of the Newcastle goals.

At first it looked as though he might have a hard job putting even one past Ray Dixon. In fact for 20 minutes it was anybody's game. The All-Stars set the home crowd back with a goal in the first half.

Chicago Grain
CHICAGO, June 7 (AP). — Corn led other grains upward toward the close of the Board of Trade session.
Corn receipts were light, and bookings on a to-arrive basis were placed at only 26,000 bushels. The result was a higher cash market, which was reflected in futures. Wheat, which had difficulty in advancing earlier in the session, pushed upward with feed grains.

Uncertain Destiny

By BETTY WEBB

CHAPTER XVII
Seated in the hotel lobby, Diane saw a slim, lovely girl approaching. She was wearing a smart, black suit, her curls peeping from beneath a chic hat, and silver fox fur cascading over one arm. For a moment Diane hesitated, wondering whether this smartly-dressed, author shabby girl she had once befriended. She had heard from many sources that Linda had changed, and yet—

Linda, walking across the room, caught sight of Diane, and forced a smile. That smile, half-doubtful, half-wistful made the artist certain this was Linda, and instantly she was on her feet, hands extended in a gracious welcome.

"Linda! I'm so glad to see you!" "I came to apologize for everything I've done," Linda said. These were the words she had thought she never would be able to say, and now that she had, Linda felt relieved. At last the barrier was Seated in the dimly-lighted dining-room, the girls eyed each other.

"How good it is to be with you again," Linda said. "I wanted to apologize long ago, but—" she reddened. "I—just didn't."

"That's all right," Diane shrugged. "Let's forget it."
"But I don't want to forget it," Linda said. "I want to know how sorry I am for the nasty things I said. I was so hurt, so bewildered that I didn't know what I was saying."

"I had time to reason things out, I knew you were not to blame. It made me miserable, unhappy but my pride kept me from admitting I had been wrong."
"I hoped you would understand that I really was your friend," Diane answered.

"I was an unfortunate business all the way around."
"Then—you'll forgive me?" "Of course, Linda."
They were silent for awhile before Diane said calmly:

"Linda looked up in surprise. "Steve,"
Diane nodded. "I've a hunch you married him only because life seemed like a mess and you wouldn't swallow your pride and go home," she said bluntly.

Linda hesitated, feeling a surge of anger at Diane's statement. Despite their renewed friendship, she felt the artist had overstepped her grounds in accusing her, however just that accusation might be. Her first duty was toward Steve, and she could not bare their secret.

"You're mistaken," she said shortly. "Steve and I are very happy."
Diane's eyes dropped to her plate. She had felt the slight rebuff, and honest eyes. By way of conversation to cover the sudden, awkward silence, she murmured casually: "I must congratulate Steve on his book. I understand it's an overwhelming success."

"Oh yes," Linda was pleased to have their conversation on safer ground. "Steve flew to New York last night to meet his publisher. They're already going over plans for another printing."

"Why you poor kid! Aren't you lonesome alone in the country?" "I've quite a lot to do," Linda replied evasively. "You see, as Steve's secretary, I take care of his correspondence."

"Don't be so sure, Mrs. Gobbler," Diane would hold no malice, but they were so near the truth that Linda started, her face coloring. The artist had missed no part of the effect her words had on her companion, but she went on hastily: "Are you planning to stay on the farm another winter?"

Linda's eyes glowed with happiness. "We've rented another apartment here in Chicago for a few months. It's hard to get back and forth to the country in bad weather, and now that the book is such a success Steve will have to spend much time here. But we'll keep the farm open and spend week-ends there."

"Sounds idyllic," Diane commented, and Linda knew such plans would sound dull to a person like Diane who craved continuous excitement. Linda had to laugh at herself, remembering how she had once dreamed of living on a perpetual merry-go-round of thrills.

THE YOUNG GOBBLEERS MEET THEIR FATHER

"Dear me, what a care children are," said Mrs. Gobbler to herself, as she watched her twelve half-grown youngsters eagerly searching for seeds and gobbling up any stray bugs or worms they discovered meanwhile.

"I thought them a great care when they were very little and quite helpless. I thought I had more worries then, but I deplore the older those scamps get, the more cause I have to worry. When they were little I could gather them under my wings. Also I could be sure that they would do exactly as I told them. Now they are getting headstrong and are beginning to think that they know all there is to know. I never have a minute's peace for fear one of them will do something foolish or careless, and, as a result, something dreadful will happen. Here they are big enough and able to fly up in the trees and they cause me more anxiety than they did when they were just out of their shells. I think it is about time their father took charge of them."

The more Mrs. Gobbler thought this over, the more she felt the need of Big Tom Gobbler's assistance. You remember she had run away from Big Tom and had hidden her nest so that he might not break the eggs through jealousy. For the same reason she had kept out of his way ever since, fearing that while the children were little he might do them some harm in one of his jealous fits. But now the youngsters were so big she no longer feared this. Besides, she suspected that by this time Big Tom must be so lonesome that he would no longer give away to fits of jealousy. In this she was quite right.

Now, while all this time Big Tom had seen nothing of her or of the children, though he often found their tracks, Mrs. Gobbler had seen him frequently and she knew all about his daily habits and just where he was likely to be found, morning, noon or night. So, having made up her mind that it was high that Big Tom should relieve her of some of her cares, she called her children about her, told them to follow her, and led the way to a certain place in the Green Forest where she felt sure Big Tom was at that hour.

As she approached the place, she appeared not to have the least idea that anyone was about. In fact, she seemed to have no thought but to pick up any bits of food that might be about. Following her example, the young Gobbles ran this way and that, snapping up a seed here, or a worm there. And then, suddenly, right before them was the most magnificent bird they ever had seen. It was Big Tom, and he had swelled himself out as only Big Tom can.

"Gobble, gobble!" said he, and all the youngsters, scurried to their mother and crowded behind her while they stared with round-eyed wonder.

"Quit, quit," replied Mrs. Gobbler mildly. "What do you think of your family, my dear? I haven't lost one."

Big Tom got red in the face with indignation at the remembrance of how Mrs. Gobbler had run away from him, then decided it would be better not to show his temper lest she should do the same thing again. So for a few minutes he said nothing, but strutted with all his might to properly impress on Mrs. Gobbler, and especially on the youngsters, a sense of his importance.

"This, children, is your father," said Mrs. Gobbler in a low voice, as she watched Big Tom with admiring eyes. And all the little Gobbles gazed with admiring eyes, too.

Next Story: Big Tom heads his family.

Sound Finances Said Need For Recreation

Need of a "sound financial" basis for the furtherance of a recreational program for all citizens of the Greater Victoria area was stressed by Dr. Henrietta Anderson in an address to the Kiwanis Club yesterday at the Empress Hotel.

Organizing director of the Greater Victoria Recreation Council, Dr. Anderson said the group was now well into a campaign to familiarize all residents of the area with the need for additional recreational facilities.

"This autumn," she said, "the council would attempt to obtain some form of civic appropriation for this purpose. Between now and that time service clubs and other organizations will be told of the recreational needs of this district."

CITY REPERCUSSIONS

"Already there have been certain repercussions," she said, "with people claiming we already have playing grounds. But it must be remembered they are only existent for about six to eight weeks of the year. Programs are restricted in many ways, insofar as age limits and other matters are concerned.

There was also a pressing need for suitable recreational facilities for elderly people of the community.

O. B. Taylor, who represents the Kiwanis Club on the recreational council, said a total of 34 cities in

Duncan to Arrange Carnival Day Event

DUNCAN, June 7.—Mayor J. C. Wragg announced that the civic banquet to be given in connection with a Duncan Dominion Day Carnival would be held in St. John's Hall, this year. Mayors, reveries, police inspectors and other officials have taken over the Thorpe store on Kenneth Street.

Mrs. K. C. Drury, Victoria, regional director of the Women's Canadian Club, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Cowichan Association of Women, held at the Thorpe store on Kenneth Street.

A Cowichan district farmer reported having seen an object that resembled a flying saucer. He said the object appeared in the sky at 5 a.m., and looked like a gigantic illuminated wheel that spun vertically from northeast to southwest at an approximate height of 1,500 feet.

C. A. Green is erecting a new building on Kenneth Street. It will contain two large stores downstairs, one of which Mr. Green will use to carry on his paint and decorating supplies business, and apartments upstairs. It will be opened at the end of the month.

Annual convention of the Mid-Island Branch of the British Columbia School Trustees' Association will be held at Duncan on Wednesday. There will be a business meeting in St. John's Hall at 1 p.m., and a banquet at Fairbridge Farm School in the evening. Representatives from Courtenay, Alberni, Ladysmith, Nanaimo and Cowichan districts attend. Mayor Wragg and Mrs. Wragg will represent Duncan.

Want Service To Aid Island

GANGES, June 7.—History of the ferry service between Salt Spring Island and Nanaimo was traced by Gavin C. Mount at a recent meeting of the Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce at Harbor House. He said it was only in recent years that Nanaimo, Duncan, Ladysmith and Crofton had been cut off from direct trade with Salt Spring Island.

Before the war the municipalities had sought to have the old service re-established. The matter had been taken up by the various members of Parliament concerned, and it had been pointed out that it was not a question of a ferry which would not pay, its way, but one which would bring even more tourists.

This had been agreed to, when the war broke out and the matter was then temporarily dropped, owing to the national emergency which faced the Dominion. Now the municipalities were again pressing for the re-establishment of the service, and the matter would be taken up at the next meeting of the Associated Chamber of Commerce of Vancouver Island.

Mr. Mount pointed out that the ferry would be of advantage to residents of Vancouver, New Westminster and other mainland towns who had summer homes on the island, as the present slow boat forced many persons to travel by air.

Judge Upsets Nanaimo Case

NANAIMO, June 7.—The decision of Magistrate Lionel Beaver-Potts convicting Eustace Walter Kile, a member of Jehovah's Witnesses, on a charge of distributing a handbill on the streets of the city, was reversed by Judge Paul P. Harrison.

Judge Harrison found clause 37 of the by-law under which the accused was convicted to be invalid. He said: "It seems to me that the prohibition and restrictions provided by said clause 37 constitute an unwarranted interference with a right exercised for a great many years by members of the public and by religious, political, social and labor organizations to freely employ that method of announcing or advertising their views, opinion and criticism to the general public, or of inviting them to attend at some particular place to hear or discuss the same."

Enter Contest

SOOKE, June 7.—Walter Connor, secretary of the Sooke Community Association, announced that Work Point Barracks would enter a tug-of-war team in All-Sooke Day sports at Sooke River flats on July 27. The Daily Colonist Cup is at stake.

To Get Power

ERRINGTON, June 7.—Poles are being erected along Errington Road by the British Columbia Power Commission, and residents are looking forward to power and electric light services.

Two Villages May Join Ladysmith School Area

LADYSMITH, June 7.—Possibility of extending the boundaries of Ladysmith School District, No. 67, to include Westholme and Crofton, reached fruition when ratemakers of Westholme voted by a large majority to join District No. 67.

Crofton voted in favor on June 1. Waterloo, north of Ladysmith, voted in favor last Thursday. South Cedar, north of Ladysmith on the old highway, voted to remain in the Nanaimo School District. Revision of boundaries will be the first step in the preparation of a sound case to present to all parties concerned, regarding need for the construction of new schools in the area.

The Department of Education, which has already initiated approval of the extension plans, awaits notification regarding the wishes of the people in the matter, and will decide whether or not decisions reached are in the best interests of all concerned.

Next move is the planning of new schools, and additions to present buildings. The policy of reopening country schools to accommodate Grades 1 to VI, now being followed by District No. 67 School Board, as laid down in the Cameron Report, met with favor in Waterloo district.

Set Last Rites At Ladysmith

LADYSMITH, June 7.—Masonic funeral services for the late Daird Davidson, 83, will be held in First United Church at 2 p.m. Saturday. Mr. Davidson passed away last Sunday.

He was born in Scotland, and settled at Extension 50 years ago. He moved to Ladysmith in 1900, where he served as a member of the City Council for 20 years. He was a Past Worshipful Master of St. John's Lodge No. 21, A.F. and A.M., and Past Worthy Patron of Sharon Chapter No. 5, O.E.S.

Mr. Davidson is survived by one son, Thomas, Ladysmith; two daughters, Mrs. V. C. Joyce and Mrs. Blanche Waggett, both of Victoria; one sister, Mrs. Daird Shearer, Vancouver, and two brothers in Scotland.

Fine Cattle on Display

PARKSVILLE, June 7.—Some of the finest Ayrshire cattle on Vancouver Island were on display at Parksville at the fifth annual Red and White Show. Top cow at the show was Ubyessey's Admiral's Pearl, owned by Harry Dawson & Son of Nanaimo Bay, which won the grand champion award, a cup donated by the Parksville and District Chamber of Commerce.

Grand champion bull was Grandview Jaunon Fifth, owned by Capt. C. L. Anderson of Cowichan Bay. Capt. Anderson also showed the related the Vancouver Island Ayrshire Club on the show, as did R. G. Newton, secretary and field man of the B.C. Ayrshire Association.
